DESCRIPTION

The I Latin-American Meeting on Energy Economics (ELAEE), organized by the Brazilian Association for Energy Studies (AB3E), is an innovating event in the area of energy economics in Brazil, being held in connection with the Brazilian Conference on Energy Planning (CBPE), which is offered every two years by the Brazilian Society for Energy Planning (SBPE). The I ELAEE is the first event of a series intended to become regular, in line with the efforts devoted by the International Association for Energy Economics (IAEE) in organizing regional conferences worldwide. IAEE regular regional events include the US (in its 28th edition), European and Asian conferences on energy economics. The organization of the I ELAEE is an initiative which seeks to establish a future IAEE Latin-American Conference.
